

The Unbroken Blade

by KakeruPB

Category: Fairy Tail, Naruto

Genre: Adventure, Romance

Language: English

Characters: Naruto U.

Status: In-Progress

Published: 2016-04-12 04:32:12

Updated: 2016-04-12 04:32:12

Packaged: 2016-04-27 19:28:21

Rating: T

Chapters: 1

Words: 6,437

Publisher: www.fanfiction.net

Summary: After the defeat of Kaguya, Naruto was sent to another world by her. Once there he must endure and move on with his life. Through the new hurdle's in life and adventure, he would once again be the light to guide does who follow him. (Rated M later)

The Unbroken Blade

**Yo this is KakeruPB with another story idea. I give credit where it's due so, I thank The Engulfing Silence for letting me borrow his idea. I won't tell you what it is just read and find out. Also I give thanks to FirstStory for the help for this story.****

**I do not own anything: Naruto is own by Kishimoto and Fairy Tail is own by Hiro Mashima****

**The End to a new Beginning****

Absolute chaos. Those were the only two fitting words that could describe the world around them. Craters of all shapes and sizes littered the battlefield, while the very earth was scorched beyond repair. Despite the devastated environment, the fighting that caused it had yet to stop. The reason being was an entity so powerful that it, or in this case she, was able shape the very land as she so wished.

A woman who has skin as white as snow, three eyes: two that is light as lavender with veins popping out of the side and a red one with three ripples and three commas on each ripple with two horns protruded on her forehead. She wore a white kimono with red commas down the center and commas on her sleeves with two rings around it. She has white hair cascaded down the middle of her back giving her an elegant appearance of royalty. This woman was none other than Kaguya Otsutsuki the mother of chakra and the mother of the Sage of Six Paths otherwise known as the Usagi no Megami.

The woman was an unstoppable force of nature that was almost invincible in the eyes of mortals. Almost that is, for there were two young men in their mid-teens risking their lives and the fate of the world to defeat her.

The first man that stood beside his comrade was a handsome young man with black spiked hair sticking out the back and two distinct eyes: his right eye had an intricate design that was red and black in the background while his left was purple with three ripple rings in it and three commas on the inner first ring. He wore a grey shirt with the collar up with a red and white fan on the back, black shinobi pants, a purple rope wrapped around his waist with a chokuto strapped to the back of his waist and black ninja sandals. This is Sasuke Uchiha as well as the reincarnation of Indra Otsutsuki and the last Uchiha.

To the right of him was a glowing orange man that looks like he was on fire. He wore an orange jacket with the sleeves stopping at the middle of his arm and nine commas on his back as well a black suit that covers his entire body with a circle on his chest and six commas around his collar bone. He has sun-kissed blond hair, three whisker marks on each cheek and golden eyes with a cross in the middle with nine black orbs floating behind him. This was Naruto Uzumaki, child of prophecy, reincarnation of Asura, and partner of the Kyuubi no Yoko, Kurama.

Things have not been going so well for these two as the very landscape drastically changed the longer the fight went on, and that wasn't even counting how many times they had been sent to different dimensions all while getting their ass kicked. Even with the power given from the Rikudo Sennin, they were barely able to keep up with the monstrous goddess.

"Dammit! We haven't landed a scratch on her!" yelled an enraged blonde

"Hn. For once I agree with you. This is getting out of hand, we need a distraction to keep her busy so we can seal her away." Sasuke grimaced.

"Well until one of us can come up with one, we got to keep her busy while hoping to find an opening somewhere." Naruto solemnly replied.

"Hn."

At any other circumstance, Naruto would have laughed at the Uchiha's simple reply. Despite how much he had changed during his absence that single two-lettered response always seemed to stay constant with him. Maybe afterwards he'd finally be able to catch up with his brother in all but blood. As a mutual agreement had been reached, they charged her while trying to come up with a plan that would put her down for good.

The blonde rushed her in a flash of light trying to cut her arms off or find an opening to grab an arm and pin her if possible, but she stepped back and avoided the attack before extending her arm so the black pole that came out of her sleeve would stab and kill him. Unfortunately for her, this was prevented by the timely intervention of Sasuke who intercepted her strike with his Susanno trying to cleave her in half with his sword. Thanks to the legendary doujutsu of the Hyuga clan, the Byakugan she possessed was able to see it coming and helped her avoid the strike by pulling back her attack and jumping back trying to make as much room as possible so they wouldn't be able to follow up.

"Damn it, those eyes of hers are really getting annoying." the blond gritted his teeth in frustration

"Hn. Tell me about it, this getting nowhere if we can't land a hit." Sasuke muttered in annoyance.

"Keep her busy while I try to hit her with a wide area attack. Maybe that will hold her long enough, so we can seal her."

Sasuke didn't say anything and just flew back at her. While he rushed to engage the enemy, nine limbs comprised of orange chakra manifested themselves around Naruto while blue sphere's swirled to life within each appendage's palm. Nine Rasengans were created in each of his hands before each orb began to evolve even further as he focused one by one of each of the bijuu element. Sand, fire, water, lava, steam, acid, dust, lightning, and pure energy coated each Rasengan giving each one a diverse appearance that seemed to emphasize their strength. Their transformation did not end there as a screeching noise permeated throughout the warzone while shuriken-like blades surrounded each sphere of chakra. Nine diverse elemental Rasengans enhanced with the cutting power of a Rasenshuriken were held in the chakra limbs as Naruto prepared to deliver the payload.

After finishing his preparations, he shifted his focus to the condition of his teammate to check for his safety. He watched as Sasuke tried to engage Kaguya in close-quarters combat. The avenger swiped his Susanoo's sword in his left hand, but was countered with a well-timed block courtesy of Kaguya, then tries to slash at her from the left shoulder to the right of her hip with his sword in the right hand but that was countered as well when she blocked it with the left rod in her hand. Sasuke was frustrated that he couldn't even get a hit in during the whole exchange. The chakra incarnate tried to grab her descendant to end his life, but he wasn't going to let that happen as he disappeared before her eyes. As soon as he disappeared, the unpleasant grinding noise of metal filled clearing as the dark-haired swordsman was replaced with his blonde friend. Her eyes widened in surprise seeing nine spheres of powerful chakra all aimed at her while their user seemed to be grinning.

***"Senpo: Cho Odama Bijuu Rasenshuriken!"** he yelled in triumph. Throwing Rasenshuriken after Rasenshuriken, each derivation of the Bijudama slammed into her with devastating force before causing another massive explosion that engulfed the very sky after every hit. Her figure exploded outwardly from the explosion while a rare expression of pain could be seen on her countenance. Her once pristine clothes were sullied with burns and blood as she flew towards the ground at supersonic speeds. With the opening visible, Naruto reappeared in front of her and grabbed a hold of her arm before landing a powerful punch to her stomach increasing her velocity towards ground zero and stunning her a little longer. Then transforming two truth seeking balls into polls and threw them each at her arms to keep her pinned.

While this was happening Sasuke didn't miss his chance. As he fired an arrow towards her falling form as the mach forces kept her from diverting away from her direct path to the earth.

***"Enton: Indra no Yari!"** as he fired a flaming black arrow at Kaguya.

When the attack hit in an explosion of purple and black chakra, Kaguya was writhing in pain and trying to put out the fire as fast as she could. While she was preoccupied, Naruto as well as Sasuke teleported next to her and extended their respective palms with the seal on it. Naruto extending his right palm with the sun mark on it and Sasuke his left palm with a crescent moon on it. As the fire died down and Kaguya freed they were able touch her and activated the seal to seal her back into the moon.

"NOOOOOOOO!" screaming out that she has fallen and sealed once more.

But no she will not fall alone this time! She will take out the one that has been the most pain in her side! Ever since she has been released he was the one who has always gotten in her way. No! No more! Cause of him she will make sure he will perish!

As this was going Naruto started to feel the buildup of chakra coming from Kaguya, but he didn't expect what happened next. He was forcedly teleported away from Kaguya to another dimension once more, but couldn't do anything to stop it! As soon as he was warped the dimensional gap was closed. After that, everything went black for him not even sure if Kaguya was properly sealed away before being sent away by her, he could only hope she was.

When Sasuke saw that his brother in all but blood has been teleported to another dimension he had no other choice to at least make sure he finished the seal with what he was left with. He did not need her being freed again by teleporting him to another dimension as well.

* * *

>Oh take a look in the mirror, you look so sad_
>It's so cold like that winter market we used to go_
>I don't cry anymore but I feel so hurt

A small child of the age of four was sitting on the window sill looking out at the children and parents. As he longs for a family and parents that would love him.

_So I don't need you too close to me__
>You don't hear me, so you said_
>I don't know why thing have changed since yesterday

A thirteen year old boy in an orange jumpsuit standing up to a chunin, while protecting the chunin behind him and then crossed his figures making hundreds of copies of himself in the forest.

_This could be love again__
>All I need is you_
>Come back, I'm waiting anytime the heavy rains come_
>Still I miss days with you_
>I can't look into your face_
>Oh Feeling blue and looking back again_

>Please come back to me

He was covered in the blood of the black hair girl, holding her close to him. Crying for the loss of his first friend who gave him the will and realization to protect those you care about. While white snow fell down from the sky.

_Oh take a look in the mirror, you look so sad__

>It's so cold like that winter market we used to go_

>I don't cry anymore but I feel so hurt

Covered in bandages after the fight he had. At the loss of a brother in all but blood, he stared out through the window with soulless eyes, as a man in the trees with long white hair watches him with sad eyes.

_So I don't need you too close to me__

>You don't hear me, so you said_

>I don't know why things have changed since yesterday

An older version of the boy in his teens looked up through the destroyed ceiling to see his brother in all but blood staring down at him with cold eyes.

_This could be love again__

>All I need is you_

>Come back, I'm waiting anytime the heavy rains come_

>Still I miss days with you_

>I can't look into your face_

>Oh Feeling blue and looking back again_

>Please come back to me

On a bench holding a popsicle tipped downwards as it melts and drops down to the ground. He was depressed that he lost someone close to him once again but not only that but someone who he could literally call family.

_Oh take a look in the mirror, you look so sad__

>It's so cold like that winter market we used to go_

>I don't cry anymore but I feel so hurt

In a white space with lights all around with two men at the center, one who looks like an older version than the other. The younger one depressed and angry that the person in front of him was the one who caused him so much grief his whole life then punched him as hard as he could.

_So I don't need you too close to me__

>You don't hear me, so you said_

>I don't know why things have changed since yesterday

A snow colored village with two people the taller looking away from the girl behind him depressed that he is still being used once more. He walks away from the girl while looking down at the snow, depressed that no one can understand his feelings.

_This could be love again__

>All I need is you_

>Come back, I'm waiting anytime the heavy rains come_

>Still I miss days with you_

>I can't look into your face_
>Oh Feeling blue and looking back again_
>Please come back to me

Crying at the sight of the woman in front of him and ran to her quickly then pulling her into a hug hoping not to lose her to. Wishing she can stay with him.

_To stay with you always__
>You're the world to me_
>And dreaming on_
>So you can take my sword for you_
>Oh How do you feel so fine_
>You're the world to me_
>And dream on_
>You stole my heart so long ago_
>Oh I release my soul_
>So you feel my song

As she was singing this song the person in her lap started to stir. When she looked at his eyes she wanted to cry. She doesn't want to see that in his eyes. Those eyes he had contained so much hurt and pain, that she wished he didn't have to go through such pain. They were so lonely she couldn't do anything but bring him into a hug and cried in his shoulder. Hoping that someone will put back the life into those eyes of his and the love he deserves after everything he's been through.

When Naruto awoke he didn't know what to expect. But when he opened his eyes he didn't know what to think. Their hovering over his face was one of the most beautiful women he had ever seen. With red hair cascaded and laid down on the crown with a yellow clip to hold a part of her hair that framed her beautiful face. She had purple eyes that look like they were about leak out tears, she was wearing a white shirt under a green dress that framed her figure nicely. But why was she about to cry? He couldn't think clearly at the moment. While he was thinking that, he didn't expect her to hug him so suddenly and now she's crying? He didn't know what to do but hold her close till his mind clears up as she cried her eyes out on his shoulder.

After a while his mind started to clear up and remember everything that happened in his life and when he looked to the women in his arms he started to cry as well. It was his mother! It was Kushina Uzumaki, his mother! He was so happy he didn't think he would be able to see her ever again.

When Kushina felt her son hold her even tighter than before she cried even harder as he started to remember. She was so happy he remembered her but was also saddened that she couldn't stay with him like he wanted. She will help to heal him then hope that someone would come to take care of her baby boy and give him the love as well as life he deserved. He has been through too much.

"Kaa-chan is it really you." He muffled out while still crying into his mother sholder.

"It's me sochi, it's really me let it all out I'm here for you." also sobbing out her reply while massaging his scalp to try and make him feel better.

He continued to cry when he heard that. She didn't mind he needs this more than anyone. She only wishes she can do more for him but what? This continued for a while until Naruto fell asleep once more from all the crying.

When Kushina saw this she got out of his embrace and placed his head back on her lap. Then continued to massage his scalp and play with his hair till he awakens. While she was doing this there was another being watching them.

This being was a gigantic fox with nine tails and human hands. It was none other than Kurama the Kyuubi no Yoko. When he saw his partner like this he couldn't help but be saddened at what he saw. He was surprised that he has not broken yet but it does not mean he is unscathed. The kid has been through a lot because of him and can't help but be mad at himself for putting him through all that, now that he thinks back to it. Of course the kid will never blame him for it. Not even during his younger days did he blame him.

"**How's the kid?"** he replied while lying down on his hands.

"I'm not actually sure, he just seems so hurt and in pain almost broken. I'm not sure what I can do to help him." replied sadly

"**Hah, for someone who is willing to take the pain and hatred of other's he sure is a handful when there is no one else to shoulder his pain." **chuckling a bit with humor.

"Was there anyone back in the Elemental Nations that he knows of to help him?" as she looked up at the fox towering over her.

"**Sadly not, the best they could do was tried to hold him up and hope he doesn't break. The only other person that was able to do so was his sensei Jiraya, since he started to see him as a father figure of sorts during their training trip. But he died when confronting Pain an old student of his when he found the Akatsuki base of operations." **replied solemnly.

"I see, guess there was no one that could really help him when he needed it." replied sadly

"Can you tell me of his life, and I mean everything he has been through. Considering how he is when we first met and now he won't tell me anything except the good in his life." as she looked back up to the fox.

"**I really shouldn't, but the kid needs all the help he can get now and most definitely after he learns of his circumstance." **as he relented to her request

So he told her everything about the kid's life from the day at the aftermath of his controlled attack till now. As she listened she couldn't help but be horrified and angry at the village as well at her so called _husband _for believing they would look at him as a hero when in fact he was treated as if he were a monster and trash below their feet. She couldn't help but wonder why her baby boy didn't run away from the village or end up going crazy and broken after everything the village did to him. But she will also admit she was proud of his accomplishments from befriending an enemy to defeating Kaguya. Though it did not lessen her anger at the village, if she was still alive she would have taken him away from there and instead travel to some no name village to live a happy life with her son and raise him as she wanted. Of course she had to take in account the hunter-nin as well, so she will probably have to fake their death but was a small price to pay for her son happiness.

As she was thinking this, Kurama was looking over at her as he told her of Naruto life and what he saw made him a bit scared, but happy it was not directed at him. Yeah, the kid would've lived a much better life if his mother was alive. Just by looking at her eyes it contained anger, pride and protectiveness of her child. Once he thought that, he decided he will make damn sure that the kid will find someone nice to live the rest of his life with after everything he has been through.

* * *

>Once he came back to consciousness again he started to wonder if that was a dream. If it was it sure wasn't a pleasant one to play with his emotions like that. As he opened his eyes he saw his mother looking down at him with a smile. When he saw that he gave her the brightest smile he can muster up and hugged her once again. Happy in which it wasn't a dream and his mother, was right here.

When Kushina saw her son wake up once more she smiled at him, happy that he was somewhat better with her around. Though, that still didn't stop the bitter filling in her stomach that she can't stay with him as long as he had hoped. What can she do that at least won't hurt him as much when she has no choice to leave? As she thought this she hugged her son back, when he hugged her once again. Though she doesn't mind, he is her precious baby boy and will treasure all the time that they will have together.

"Kaa-chan, you're really here. I'm so happy but how are you here? I thought the last remnants of your chakra already disappeared." he asked

"Well you see when Minato sealed the other half of the Kyuubi in you. There were still some of my chakra remnants mixed in with the Kyuubi. So when I woke up, the first thing I saw was you but you were unconscious the whole time." She replied, while trying to keep the disdain of saying _his _name out of her voice.

Though Naruto did not miss that but will ask her about it later. Now is really not the time and he just really wants to spend time with his mother.

"That's Awesome! That means we can spend more time together!" he yelled out. But then remember she said 'Chakra Remnants'. He was sad when he registered that.

She was happy that he wanted to spend time with her, but then got confused at why he was sad all of a sudden. Wait a minute now that she thought about it he must've picked up on something she said, but what? She didn't have to wait long to get her answer though.

"How long are you able to stay?" sadly asking

She got wide eyed when he asked that. So that's what got him down so fast. All she could do was given him a sad smile.

"This time longer, at most a year if I don't use any of the chakra I currently have six months the shortest if I use it often." she said sadly

When he heard that he was elated that she would be able to stay with him that long but also saddened at the same time that she will have to leave him again.

When she saw him giving her a smile again she was happy that she was at least staying as long as that but by looking into his eyes she could see a hidden hint of sadness. It saddens her a bit considering she couldn't stay with him like he wanted.

"Well I'm at least happy that your even here Kaa-chan." replied happily

"Me to but do you remember what happened after your fight?" questioning him with care in her voice.

Now that he thought about it, what did happen? As he was in deep thought he unconsciously closed his eyes, while making the best thinking expression he could make.

Which in Kushina opinion looked absolutely adorable on him; she just wants to wrap her arms around him and scream how cute he is. Now that she thought about it, she wonders if he purrs if she massaged his whisker marks. '_Now's not the time for that, I can play with them later_' as she shook her head of the intriguing and tempting thought.

"The last thing I remember was me and the teme fighting Kaguya, then eventually end up putting the seal on her." he said

When she heard that she grimaced a bit since he doesn't remember what happen after that. This is going to hurt her baby boy and she doesn't want to see him crying again. But he had to know, so she built her courage up and prepared herself to tell him about what happened after that.

"Well, yes but you see sochi after you and your friend activated the seal to seal Kaguya, she used what strength she had available then teleported you to another dimension then sealed it off." then ending it on a sad note.

When he heard that he didn't know what to say. He wanted to tell her that she was lying and she would just laugh it off saying that she was just joking and told him what really happened but by just looking at her he could tell his mother wasn't lying about this.

"I see that's what happened." laughing a bit, but there was no emotion in it. "After everything I did this is how it end's." letting out a few tears

"There, there sochi everything isn't over just yet." As she brought her son into a hug and playing with his hair once more to calm him down. "Think of it like this a second life, a life how you will be able to live however you want it, if anything you're not alone."

Right when she said that a small fox jumped onto Naruto shoulder and pushed its hand against his face. When Naruto felt that he looked to his left and saw a smaller version of Kurama.

"**Yeah kit she's right you still got me, remember what you said to me back when you gain control of my chakra in its purest form?**" as the fox smiled at his partner.

"_If you are filled with hate and anger I will take it all onto myself! Sure you are a demon and weapon to the eyes of the people but to me you are a living being, if anything I will not see you as such but a friend in need!_" _he declared_

"That's right, sorry about that Kurama." as he laughed a little at his remembrance of that time when the bijuu was still stubborn and unwilling to cooperate.

"**It's alright, but what you said back there goes both ways. I will be there when you need it.**"

As this was happening Kushina was happy that her son was feeling better but she knows that there is still a whole in his heart. That won't be healed till someone actually makes him feel loved and needed.

After the revelation of the situation and making sure Naruto didn't fall into despair again, they started to change the subject to something less depressing. So as Naruto and Kushina talked while Kurama lay down on his partner lap while he brushes the back of his fur. Kushina was thinking of what to leave for her son before she had to go this time.

After hearing what Kurama told her of Naruto life, she was depressed that her son didn't know anything about her clan. After thinking this she decided that she will teach him everything she knows and write down anything she couldn't teach him in time.

"Ne sochi do you know anything about are clan?" she asked

"Nothing really, I didn't even know my last name was a clan name until the first time we met. After that everything was moving so fast that I didn't have time to find anything about it." he said sadly

Well then she was going to have to fix that then. Considering he should have known about his family this whole time but was denied it. Now that she thought about it there was literally nothing about her clan in Konoha. Even when she went to the academy there was nothing about her clan. She couldn't believe it and they helped fine the place! Plus she couldn't believe she didn't see it the first time! Oh she was ticked off about that. Well that doesn't matter now they are gone from that retched place and she needs to focus on making her son feel better and to have something to remember her by.

"Well then sochi how about your Kaa-chan teaches you everything she knows." Kushina said

"Really Kaa-chan!" he yelled.

He was really happy to learn about his clan and from his kaa-chan no less! After hearing about it the first time, he always wanted to know about his clan but didn't have the time cause of the war, but now he gets to learn about them!

"Of course, it's only right that you know about your family!" she said happily

"YATTA!" he screamed

After that Kushina started to tell Naruto everything she knew about her clan. How they put family before anything else, they were all practically Fuinjutsu masters, was feared for their prowess in Fuinjutsu, their longevity and stamina, and even their Kenkai Genkai that wasn't very well known.

"It was called the Hitokage no Yaiba, it is a blade that is pretty much a representation of your soul. As for how it manifests it's when your soul is considered matured. Now that I think about it I'm surprised you haven't manifested yours yet." confused at the end

"**Huh, I didn't know that.**" actually surprised he didn't know something like this considering he has been around since the Rikodou Sennin.

As for Naruto he was surprised and thinking how bad ass his clan was. Though when he heard that the Kenkai Genkai manifests when his soul is matured, he was surprised that it hadn't manifested yet after everything he has been through.

"Well it wasn't well known and we only used the abilities of are blade when in a dire situation which was rare considering are style for the sword."

"**Well I guess that's what it was that has been feeling odd in the kit. Since he came to an understanding with his dark half, it must've been his Kenkai Genkai awakening.**"

"Now you tell me!" he yelled at the fox on his lap

"**Hey! A lot had happened and I didn't think in telling you till after the war!**" he yelled back

"Well next time tell me about this sooner!" he yelled

"**Yeah, yeah, just be happy we now know what it was and someone who can teach you how to use it properly.**" While waving one of his tails back at him

As their argument was going on Kushina was watching them amused at the sight she was seeing. Who would have thought that this small little fox is the feared Kyuubi no Yoko that caused so much destruction and death in the past, is now arguing with her son like they were best of friends. Which probably pretty closes to the truth and would get closer in the future, then see each other as brothers no doubt.

"Ahem!" getting the attention of the two "Now that we know my sochi has awakened his Kenkai Genkai, let's see it!" excited to see what her son sword is and it's capabilities.

"Well um kaa-chan, you haven't really told me how to do it yet." he replied sheepishly while scratching the back of his head.

That actually surprised Kushina a bit, but then remember there was no one or even information about their clan shown to him.

"Just imagine yourself holding the grip of your sword and call out to it, then it will appear." she explained

So he closed his eyes as he did as he was told and pretended to hold the grip of his sword. As this happened blue chakra coalesce in his hand, so thick it looked solid, it crackled and sizzled then it stop and came to life. From what they saw Kushina and Kurama couldn't help but gape at how beautiful the sword looked.

Once Naruto felt something in his hands, he opened his eyes and saw his mom and Kurama have their mouths open in shock. He couldn't help but wonder what made them so shocked but when he looked down at his hands he couldn't help but gape out as well.

It was a beautiful blade and from the looks of it, it was a daito a Japanese long sword that had a twenty seven inch blade. The middle ridge of the blade, or the shinogi, was near the center of the blade and had a narrow profile, otherwise known as Shinobi-hikoshi; the point was done in the Kissaki style, with a curved profile, and smooth three-dimensional curvature across the surface towards the edge; the blade was a dark black that seemed to suck in all light, while the edge was pure silver. At the bottom of the blade, near the tsuba was a depiction of a golden wolf howling.

The cross-guard had four prongs bent out to form the shape of the kanji for full. The grip was covered in black crisscrossing lace with gold flecks. Finishing the sword off was a short length of a chain with a broken link at the end that dangled from the base of the hilt.

"Wow." Is all Kushina could say, but then shook herself out of her stupor.

"Ahem." once again getting their attention back "I got to say that is a beautiful blade. So what does it do." getting curious of what this masterpiece of a blade can do.

"Um." as he started to meditate

Once he got the information he was surprise of what he discovered. So he started tell his mother and partner of its abilities and name. Apparently the daito is called Hikage Ookami (Wolf of Light and Shadows) and was a blade of contradictions. The black part of the blade represented the hardships and the darkness that was in his life. The silver part of the blade that seems to glow with light, representing his will to not give into darkness.

As for the blades secret techniques it was called Uzumaki Hijutsu Kenjutsu (Uzumaki Secret Sword Techniques) were Hiton (Light Release) and Yamiton (Dark Release) that allowed him to wield light and darkness based chakra techniques.

As of right now Naruto could not use any of the techniques for his sword, even with the knowledge of how to use them since his body was unable to handle the strain of doing so since he is not accustomed to it yet. It wouldn't take him long but it will take a few years of training before he could use all of Hikage Ookami's techniques and few more to master them.

After hearing that they didn't know what to say, except Naruto sword is a mystery. Considering both of them never heard of Hiron or Yamiron. They would probably have to test that out later when Naruto gets a better grip in Kenjutsu before doing and mastering the techniques. Can't have him hurting himself after all, plus Kushina wants to make sure she taught her son everything she knows and he can work on those techniques in his own time.

"Ok sochi you can put it away now. You can practice with that outside when you're conscious."

"Ok kaa-chan." just like that he willed the sword to go back.

"Anyways we won't be training just yet, until your conscious outside. So in the meantime just relax and spend some time with this awesome kaa-chan of yours!"

So like that Naruto spent the rest of his time with his kaa-chan and Kurama. Talking about anything that came to mind and him being able to sleep with his kaa-chan like he wanted to as a kid, but he was still depressed that he won't be able to see the friends he made ever again. He knows it's not good to dwell on it but he can't help it. All he could hope for is that time would help numb the pain and if that didn't work keeping himself occupied with the training he will be receiving once he gains consciousness outside will help.

* * *

>Thank you for reading and I appreciate any constructive criticism you may have it would help make the story better!

**Ja Ne!**

End
file.